

Bethune's Opus: Restoring Louise Bethune's Hotel Lafayette

Bethune's Opus: Restoring Louise Bethune's Hotel Lafayette captures the energy and excitement surrounding the rebirth of one of Buffalo's most treasured landmarks.

Originally opened in 1904, the Hotel Lafayette was designed by Buffalo's Louise Blanchard Bethune, the country's first professional woman architect.

After years of neglect, it has been meticulously restored in breathtaking architectural detail and is scheduled to reopen in May 2012.

Local award-winning photographer, Jackie Albarella has captured this remarkable restoration in stunning, full color photos combined with historical information and interviews with some of the dozens of craftsmen and artisans who worked on the project.
